

FEAR MCCORMICK DEAD; FIND BODY OF COMPANION

Mangled Remains of Richard Whitmer Picked Up At Peak's Base

HUNT DIRECTED BY GOV. TINGLEY

Mother of Lost Youth Is Daughter of the Late Mark Hanna

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 25.—The bluff Sandia mountains, frowning down upon the Rio Grande valley, hid today the fate of John Medill McCormick, feared the victim of a fall from one of their respective peaks.

Searchers, who resumed their tragic task at dawn, expected to find the mangled body of the Chicago publisher here, much as last night they came upon that of his mountain-climbing companion, 20-year-old Richard Whitmer of Albuquerque.

Governor Leads Search
Personally commanding the three-day search, Governor Clyde Tingley expressed the thoughts of the army of men he led into the Sandias today:

"That boy—his body—is in there somewhere, and we'll find it—we'll find him."

Racked by anxiety, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms last night waited in Juan Tabo CCC camp, at the base of the mountains, hoping to learn that her 20-year-old son still lived.

She heard only that young Whitmer's body, skull crushed, a most denuded, had been found at the base of "The Shield."

McCormick's sheer rock face of North Sandia peak.

The youths had climbed steep South Sandia peak, and the even more rigorous slopes of "The Needle," nearby.

Wednesday morning they set out to try the face of North Sandia. When they failed to return a search was launched for them.

The shock of Whitmer's fall, they believed, must have dislodged young McCormick, dashing him also from the precipitous wall to which he clung.

Called "Impossible Climb"
The cliff up which they started was "an impossible climb" in the opinion of John Matthews, veteran Albuquerque mountaineer.

The peak rises 10,800 feet above sea-level, and towers nearly a mile over the valley below.

Mrs. Simms, daughter of the late Mark Hanna of Ohio and herself former congresswoman from Illinois, was dissuaded by friends from accompanying the searching party.

Young McCormick is the son of Mrs. Simms and the late U. S. Sen. Medill McCormick of Illinois. Mrs. Simms' second husband is Albert Gallatin Simms, Albuquerque attorney.

SLASH MADE IN STEEL PRICES

Surprise Move Leaves Industry Puzzled Concerning Wages

(By Associated Press)
PITTSBURGH, June 25.—Big Steel's surprise cutting of steel prices $3 to $4 in Pittsburgh and as much as $6 in Chicago, left the industry puzzling today about wages.

The decreases announced yesterday by Carnegie Illinois Steel, the nation's largest producer and largest subsidiary of U. S. Steel, ranged from 7 to 21 per cent and eliminated differentials between Pittsburgh and Chicago.

The new prices approximated the level of 10 years ago and were made, the company said, to meet competitive conditions. Officials said informally the wage question was not involved and that anything affecting them must be discussed with the CIO's Steel Workers Organizing committee.

Expect Wage Slashes
Most of the industry expected wages would be slashed. Observers pointed out that Big Steel alone, if all its units made corresponding reductions, would lose $50,000,000 or more in revenue on such a volume as last year's of $664,000,000.

They saw significance also in the series of conferences in New York between high executives of U. S. Steel and leaders of the L. W. O. C. including its chairman, Philip Murray.

Months ago Benjamin F. Palsless, president of U. S. Steel, declared it would be impossible to reduce the price of Bull Market Brings Happy "Jolt" to U.S.

Seems to Indicate "We're At the Bottom", Says Analyst

CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press General Financial Editor

NEW YORK, June 25.—The stock market fell out of bed this week—and hit the ceiling.

It was a startling but joyous awakening from its long spell of sleeping sickness which had reduced the volume of trading on occasion to the lowest in 20 years.

Five days rising prices added some $4,000,000,000 to the total quoted value of listed stocks, and wiped out the average losses since early March. It was the swiftest swelling of prices experienced since the spring of 1933.

Its recovery was so sudden, and unexpected, that some commentators called it "the mystery bull market."

The favorite theory was that the market was trying to tell the world the 1937-38 business slump had hit rock-bottom. Some admitted that might be wishful thinking, but pointed to slight but persistent gains in recent weeks in some important business barometers.

Col. Leonard P. Ayres, well-known Cleveland analyst and economist, said last night, "the general conclusion which seems justified is that we are now probably at or near the bottom of the present depression," but he thought recovery would be slow.

Signs of a change of direction, however, were what Wall Street had

HOUSE REFUSES TO COMPROMISE; SENATE QUILTS

And Ohio Is Left Without Relief After 6-Weeks' Special Session

CITIES OPPOSE MATCHING PLAN

House Seeks New Conference, But Senate Refuses

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, June 25.—Refusal by the house of representatives to accept a compromise financing plan left Ohio without a poor relief program today after six weeks of jockeying by a special legislative session.

The senate, irked by the lower chamber's action, quit work last night and voted to adjourn finally next Thursday after a skeleton session.

Defeated Overwhelmingly
Opposition of municipalities to requirements for local communities matching dollar for dollar, the state's grants and asserted inadequacy of the program caused the house to defeat overwhelmingly a conference committee report which had been adopted by the senate.

House leaders sought a new conference meeting but the senate's leaders said they would refuse to negotiate further. Since the lower branch was virtually certain not to concur in the senate adjournment resolution, the two houses were in disagreement and the future uncertain.

The conference program called for extending through 1941 existing state relief taxes—utility excise, near-beer, admissions, malt and wort levies—which apparently would have produced about $5,500,000 for the 24 counties regarded as needing additional funds for the rest of 1938.

Local communities would have been required to match these funds equally. To provide the local monies, the conference report proposed issuance of notes anticipating collection of delinquent taxes.

On this point the municipalities rebelled, contending the proposed notes were unsalable and the process would deprive them of badly-needed operating funds in future years.

The conferees proposed permitting anticipation of poor relief of 1939-41 revenues from the state taxes but the house, heeding the cities' plea, wanted to change this to 90 per cent and eliminate the matching requirements.

Senate leaders refused to budge and the disagreement forced revision of estimates of funds made available under the conferees' program—including the disputed matching funds and allocations under the $1,500,000 lending bill previously enacted—indicated that 19 of the 24 needy counties would have received enough for their requirements.

The five left with insufficient funds were Cuyahoga, Lucas, Montgomery, Trumbull and Clark. Officials of other large cities were virtually unanimous, however, in declaring the contemplated program inadequate, all contending it would be impossible to raise the matching funds.

Should the senate insist on following its adjournment resolution and not return for working sessions, Gov. Martin L. Davey could adjourn the assembly and immediately call another session.

Declaring Right to Intervene In Democratic Primaries, President Makes It Plain He Won't Hesitate To Speak

REVIEWS CONGRESS LEGISLATION

Asks Cooperation of Capital and Labor and Says There'll Be No Special Session, "Barring Unforeseen Events"

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 25.—President Roosevelt, declaring a right to intervene in Democratic primaries, gave virtual notice today that he was prepared to fight personally for election of a congress favorable to his policies.

In his 12th "fireside chat" by radio to the nation last night, the President made it plain that he would not hesitate to speak out when he thought a contest between a "liberal" and a "conservative" warranted.

"As President of the United States, I am not asking the voters of the country to vote for Democrats next November as opposed to Republicans or members of any other party," he said. "Nor am I, as President, taking part in Democratic primaries."

FEELS HE HAS RIGHT TO SPEAK
"As head of the Democratic party, however, charged with the responsibility of carrying out the definitely liberal declaration of principles set forth in the 1936 Democratic platform, I feel that I have every right to speak in those few instances where there may be a clear issue between candidates for a Democratic nomination involving these principles, or involving a clear misuse of my own name."

Besides touching on politics, the President reviewed the legislation enacted by the last congress and asked for the cooperation of capital and labor in maintaining wages and in replacing federal "pump priming" outlays with private spending.

"Barring unforeseen events," he told his listeners, there would be no special session of congress.

He mentioned also the defeat last year of his proposal to reorganize the courts and asserted the net result had been "an important victory for the people of the United States—a lost battle which won a war."

Asserting that in one way or another the "real objectives" of his court message to congress had been attained, he added:

SAYS COURT ATTITUDE CHANGED
"The attitude of the supreme court towards constitutional questions is entirely changed. Its recent decisions are eloquent testimony of a willingness to collaborate with the two other branches of government to make democracy work."

Even though a few persons "are tired or frightened by the inescapable pace of this modern world," he commented at another point, government can not "take a holiday of a year, or a month or even a day" from its efforts "to meet continuing problems."

Turning to a discussion of politics near the conclusion of his 30-minute talk, Mr. Roosevelt drew a line between liberals and conservatives.

CITES U. S. RIGHT OF ASSEMBLY
In a statement which made some listeners think of charges which have been brought against Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, N. J., the President said he was concerned about the attitude of candidates and their sponsors "with respect to the rights of American citizens to assemble peaceably and to express publicly their views and opinions on important social and economic issues."

"There can be no constitutional democracy in any community which denies to the individual his freedom to speak and worship as he wishes," he said. "The American people will not be deceived by anyone who attempts to suppress individual liberty under the pretense of patriotism."

Mr. Roosevelt mentioned no names in that connection, but many listeners recalled that Rep. O'Connell (D-Mont.) Nor a Thomas and others have denounced Hague in language very similar for denying them permits to speak in Jersey City.

The President turned over to the justice department charges from several organizations and individuals that Hague had violated civil liberties guaranteed by the constitution.

When he turned to discussion of the activities of the 75th congress, he said that although it "left many things undone," it had "achieved more for the future good of the country than any congress did between the end of the World war and the spring of 1933."

High on his list of the legislators' "more important" achievements, the President mentioned the farm and wage-hour bills and the resolution creating a committee to study monopoly.

Referring to "mistakes" he said had been made last year, the executive added that leaders of private enterprise, after pleading for a curtailment of government spending, "made the mistake of increasing their inventories too fast and setting many of their prices too high for their goods to sell."

"Some labor leaders, goaded by decades of oppression of labor, made the mistake of going too far," he added. "They asked employers not only to bargain with them but to put up with jurisdictional disputes at the same time."

"Government too made mistakes—mistakes of optimism in assuming that industry and labor would themselves make no mistakes—and government made a mistake of timing in a badly cut farm bill or a wage and hour bill last year."

SUNDAY SPORTS

In the light of modern trends it is difficult to follow the line of reasoning which prompted Wellsville's city council, by a 4 to 3 vote, to place a ban on Sunday baseball in that city. Providing an outlet for clean sport-loving desires no longer is regarded as the desecration of the Sabbath it once was. Every community offers ample proof that the public cannot be legislated into giving up its Sunday sports events no more than it can be legislated into going to church.

Practically every clean sport has its thousands of followers on Sunday. To deny them, or any portion of them, the opportunity to witness or participate in their favorite game does not benefit them spiritually and does not increase church attendance. It merely sends them off to neighboring communities where such sports are available. Golf, baseball, football, polo, races of various kinds, swimming and boating, bowling and other events attract great throngs in almost every community, large and small.

If the public cannot find its popular amusement in its own community, experience has proved that it will go where it can find it. For that reason Wellsville's council did nothing to keep its people at home when it refused to legalize Sunday baseball.

A similar situation exists in Salem with respect to bowling, which is not permitted on Sunday. Yet this sport, one of the cleanest on the sports calendar, attracts scores of Salem men and women to other cities every Sunday during the bowling season. Its ban on Sunday in Salem does not prevent the bowlers from crashing the maples on that day.

All the ban means is that money devoted to this sport goes to neighboring cities instead of being kept in Salem. City council would do well to eliminate it from the ordinance against pool rooms and set up a separate ordinance regulating it as other ordinances legalize other sports on Sunday.

ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN HERE

The word "invasion" applied to Republican Chairman Hamilton's journey into the deep south is misleading. It suggests a war expedition.

Quite the contrary, Mr. Hamilton seeks nothing but peace—plus enough votes to swing a few southern states out of the New Deal column some November day in the near future. Anything can happen here, he must have decided.

Perhaps this is premature; it's certainly problematic. But Mr. Hamilton very likely knows what he's doing. He may have read recently in the Northern Virginia Daily these two sentences from an editorial headed "South Splits:"

"Laws have been sponsored by the present administration and others are reported to be in prospect which appear to be plainly designed to cripple our institutions, pillory our traditions and social customs, and bind our industry and agriculture in chains of subjection to the industrial north. And so brazen are many of these policies that no denial whatever is made of their true purpose and intent."

Whether he read it or not, it explains why the chairman of the Republican national committee has "gone south" with the party's sample trunk. A fellow can't be shot for trying.

BAD FOR BUSINESS

The world, with the exception of the German propaganda ministry, seemed fairly well satisfied Thursday with the heavyweight champion situation. Joe Louis had landed on the principal challenger in a way which demonstrated that he had the situation under control. Even the defeated Schmeling, who added a sizable chunk to his fortune by being bruised for less than three minutes, wasn't too unhappy, it may be supposed.

Yet, the way the fight turned out, it was bad for business. It's that easy for one heavyweight to beat up (outbox) another one, the prevalent suspicion that a lot of fight fans have been strung along for years is going to grow livelier. The next time a match turns out to be a dull routine of pushing and punching, with both boxers determined to stay out of harm's way, the fans will remember Joe Louis and two minutes and four seconds; and that may create an unpleasant situation.

WALT DISNEY M. A.

Yale university has jumped on the Walt Disney bandwagon by giving Mickey Mouse's creator an honorary M. A. degree. It's an odd state of affairs when men tumble over one another to pile honors on a man who happened to hit a responsive chord.

Mr. Disney probably never dreamed of helping to save the world from its own unimaginative drooping when he began to perk it up with Mickey Mouse. Even when he made "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," he probably had his eye on the boxoffice—and if he didn't, it's probably there now.

In brief, Walt Disney is the product of one of those fortunate accidents which sometimes happen—accidents which enable a rare individual to make a lot of money, a lot of friends and to do a lot of good by being practical about impracticalities. The late Will Rogers was perhaps his most distinguished predecessor.

THE STARS SAY:

For Monday, June 27

Monday's astrological forecast is for a very lively and progressive day, with sudden developments of a surprising nature in the way of speculative opportunities to expand the fortunes.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of opportunity for expanding the fortunes and putting matters on a paying basis for the future. It may be a speculative opportunity for a quick coupe, and may call for an unexpected change of importance with an entire rearrangement of the affairs. A child born on this day may be capable, ambitious, proud, expansive and generous, with much popularity and prestige urging it into a position of public importance.

For Sunday, June 26

Sunday's horoscope is a very intriguing one, with much activity shown for many peculiar or surprising developments. It may be that secret complications may develop sordid or sinister angles or curious entanglements, calling for vigilance and discretion.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of rather peculiar, sudden and surprising experiences, with intrigue, adventure and romance looming large. While the latter may give happiness, the secret entanglements might unfold somewhat of the sinister or sordid. In cases of anxiety, consult elders.

A child born on this day may be versatile and enterprising, romantic and disposed to venture off the beaten track. It may be inclined to craftiness, subtlety and collusion in attaining its objectives.

SKY IS "TRACK" FOR COLLEGE MEET

AKRON, June 25.—A collection of college boys, some of them with flying machines bought on the time payment plan, competed in an airplane "track meet" at Akron airport today without any paying customers in the stands to cheer them on.

The youngsters, all undergraduates, represented a dozen colleges from New England to California in this latest and poorest-of-intercollegiate sports.

The idea, as explained by Kenneth Benson, managing the meet for the host flying club, Akron university's "Cloudhoppers" was to promote more college flying as a recognized extra-curricular activity. In the lounge of the University club, where they were quartered, the contestants admitted that a corollary function of the meet was to convince anxious parents that young men at the age of maturity could fly light planes without breaking their necks.

For this, the fourth annual meet sponsored by the National Intercollegiate Flying club, entries had been received from Harvard, Toledo university, San Jose state college, University of Detroit, Kenyon college, University of Minnesota, Stanford, University of Toronto, University of Michigan, Amherst, Lawrence Institute of Technology (Detroit) and Akron.

Award of a half-dozen loving cups was the sole stake for the two-day meet. Contestants were supplied with gasoline and oil for the engines of their small, skitter-like ships, but apart from that their expenses came out of pocket.

The flying experience of the 40-odd contestants, one girl included among them, ranged from 800 solo hours for Wallace Bassett, Stanford, of San Marino, Calif., down to 15 for Robert H. Legg, Kenyon, of Geneva, N. Y.

The teams are graded on a point basis for "bomb" dropping, landing at a given spot on the airport and cutting streamers of paper thrown overboard from an umpire's plane high in the air.

The lone girl entrant was Joan King of Bryn Mawr, Pa., representing Stanford and described in one breath by her men classmates, in typical college fashion, as a superior pilot and a "cheerful little earful."

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York City.

ANKLE SPRAIN

Minor accidents are every day affairs. Many of those that are called "trivial" may cause great inconvenience and real disability. Even so simple an injury as a sprained ankle sometimes leads to several weeks of discomfort.

Many accidents, accepted at the time as unimportant, are found to have produced a great deal of damage. Not knowing the seriousness of what has happened, the condition is neglected and, in consequence, permanent damage results. A twist of the ankle, if properly cared for, will heal within a short time. But if neglected there will be marked swelling, pain, tenderness and inability to use the foot.

Too often the victim accepts the injury as a simple wrench or strain. It may well be that what appears to you as a trifling injury, may be a dislocation of the joint, or an actual fracture or break of bone.

Of course, I do not wish to leave the impression that all injuries of the ankle are serious. But it is quite possible to have a small portion of a bone split off or chipped, or the joint actually dislocated. If such should prove to be the case, the lack of medical care is almost sure to lead to permanent deformity and disability.

Consult Doctor

It is always wise to consult the doctor. It may be difficult to detect the extent of the injury by a casual and manual examination of the injured part. Undoubtedly the physician will recommend an X-ray picture of the damaged leg. By use of the X-ray it is possible to detect the extent of the damage. It will also help to determine the necessary treatment.

If the injury is in truth a sprain, the joint should be firmly fixed and complete support given the ankle. This is usually accomplished by the application of adhesive plaster. But this must be expertly applied. Faulty application may lead to serious interference with the circulation of the blood, and, in consequence, the swelling continues to increase.

Cold compresses should be applied to the parts. This should be done as soon as possible to prevent swelling. Weight of the body should be taken off the damaged ankle. Also the foot should be elevated.

It is in spite of every care the pain continues and the swelling increases. Consultation with your doctor should be had. To be really safe, do not assume that you have a simple sprain; let your doctor decide.

Uphold Liquor Act

COLUMBUS, June 25.—The Walden, Kinnam and Marvin company of Toledo today was refused permission to carry on its former business as dispenser of medicinal liquor by a three-judge federal court which upheld the Ohio Liquor Control Act.

Escapes Execution After Eating Last Meal in Death Row

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., June 24.—A heavily barred death row cell in Indiana state prison held today Robert Shaw, 27, the man who skipped a date with death in the electric chair because of a legal technicality which brought a reprieve from Governor Townsend just 30 minutes before the scheduled execution.

Shaw, sentenced to die for the murder of a deputy sheriff, had eaten his "last meal" and was talking with the prison chaplain when informed his execution had been stayed by the governor until after midnight Monday, June 27, "to give us," the executive said, "an opportunity to clear up this situation, a technicality in Shaw's commitment papers."

The governor had refused previously to intervene, when Warden Alfred Dowd discovered the man had been sentenced to death by Judge Clyde C. Carlin of LaGrange county after pleading guilty to first degree murder in connection with the slaying, last Dec. 3, of Deputy Sheriff Harry E. Spice. There had been no jury in the case, as required by law.

Oil Lisbon Streets

LISBON, June 25.—Members of the village council are proud of at least one service they give to their community.

It is that of oiling all the dirt streets in the town at no cost to the property owners. Lisbon is the only village in the state which oils the streets free of charge, councilmen claim.

Work started yesterday on spraying the five miles of dirt thoroughfares.

CHAPTER XVI

Mrs. Bird continued: "I was wakened up to a private sitting room where there was an odd little decorated creature who told me he was Lord Gavin Portesque and that advertisement was his. He asked me no end of questions about the end of the life I'd led, but he seemed satisfied and that that Milly might live in the house with me too. He made a point of it that I was to have no other visitors though; even for a cup of tea, because there's all sorts of valuables in the house. He was afraid that if people came to the place they might speak about them to other folk outside and that might lead to a visit from the burglars. Very scared of having burglars in his absence, he was, and he asked me if I was afraid of handling firearms."

"I said I wasn't afraid of burglars or firearms and that seemed to please him quite a lot, because he told me he would have put a man in the house except that it was so difficult to find a man who could cook. As he flew backwards and forwards from France quite a lot on business, he was landing in the grounds, sometimes late at night and wanting a very particular gentleman to be secured but it wasn't for me to argue about that, so Milly and I moved in last February."

"That's all nice and clear Mrs. Bird," the Inspector nodded. "Now, will you tell us what's been happening since?"

"He didn't come near the place for a month, except to settle us in. But toward the end of April..."

"You hardly see a soul apart from the gardeners then?" Gregory interrupted.

"No, and not much of them either. All but one old deaf chap and a couple of lads who come by the day to look after the glass houses and keep the place tidy."

Gregory exchanged a significant glance with Wells. "Then apart from your foster daughter and yourself there is not a single person sleeps on the estate now?"

"That's so, sir."

"You were going to tell us what happened at the end of April?"

"Well, his little lordship came down and stayed the night. Then next day a gang of workmen arrived to build a big shed at the edge of the trees on the far side of the house. A few days later he turned up again in an airplane which he kept in the shed. Since then he's been backwards and forwards quite a lot, mostly at night time, and he never stays more than a few hours. Sometimes there's a tall gentleman with him who's got a game leg, and sometimes a dark lady. Very lovely is, but some sort of foreigner. He was with him tonight and he always has two men too who fly his plane. It never entered my head that there could be anything tricky about him until tonight. You wouldn't think it yourself, would you, him being a lord and a rich one into the bargain—or isn't he a lord at all?"

"Oh, his name is Lord Gavin Portesque," Gregory assured her, "but the fact of a man having a title doesn't necessarily prevent him being a criminal."

"The sooner we get out the better then. It's hard to lose an easy job but I've got Milly to think of."

"I hope you won't decide to do that, Mrs. Bird," Wells said quickly. "There's not the least likelihood of these people doing you or Miss Chalfont any harm, and if you say nothing about our visit they won't have any reason to suspect you of knowing that the police are interested in their activities. If you can see your way to stay on here just as though nothing had happened it'd be a very great help to us. You see, I'd send a man down to keep in touch with you outside the Park and through him you could let us know each time Lord Gavin or his people come and go from here."

"That's all very well, young man, but if they're criminals, as you say, they might murder us both in our beds one night."

"No, no! Their business is smuggling silks and other dutiable goods over from France and I feel certain that they won't do you the least harm. There's another point, too. If you leave at once you'll be out of a job again, whereas if you're prepared to stay on and give us your help I think I can promise we'll be able to find a comfortable billet in a decent family for you when it's all over, through the police organization."

Mrs. Bird considered for a moment. "It'd be a big load off my mind if you could. All right. I'll stay then."

"Splendid!" The Inspector stood up. "Well now, I haven't got a search warrant but since you're going to give us your help you won't mind if I have an unofficial look round the house, will you? I just might spot something which would be useful to us later on."

Mrs. Bird nodded agreement, but Gregory shrugged. "As they only use this place for secret landings, and never stay here more than an hour or two, I doubt if you'll find anything of interest. Anyway, I'm going to leave you to it and get back to London. Poor old Rudd looks as though he could do with an hour or two's sleep."

Rudd yawned. "You've said it, sir, but you're looking fresh as a daisy yourself. How you manage to keep going at times like this has always been a poser for me."

Wells came out to see them on their way and accompanied them through the shrubbery at the side of the house round to its front. It was past four o'clock and in the faint light of the early summer dawn the broad meadows of the park now showed up clearly. To their left front, from a group of trees a few hundred yards away, a turret rose, crowned by an openwork steel spire which looked like a small replica of the Eiffel Tower or a wireless mast, adding an extra fifty feet to its height. On the fringe of another group of trees, a little nearer, to their right, they could see a big wooden shed.

Gregory jerked his head towards it. "That's the hangar where they house the plane. Having all those trees behind it explains why I failed to spot it last night."

"They've certainly got the very place for their job here," Wells commented. "That steel mast above the tower must be visible for miles. It's perfect for a signal light to bring in other planes that don't know the lay of the land any time they want to."

"Well, what does A. do now?" asked Gregory, preparing to move off.

The young Inspector laughed. He was in a high good humor as a result of his night's work. "A, being you, calls at the Carlton tomorrow and endeavors to make contact with B, the lady in the case, while C, being myself, returns to dull routine sending a junior here to keep in touch with Mrs. Bird and the Park under observation."

"Righto, then. So long, Inspector," Gregory turned away with Rudd beside him and set off down the east drive towards the field where he had left his plane.

As Wells could make no further move of importance in his investigation until he learned whether Gregory had managed to get in touch with Sabine, he saw no necessity to hurry back to London, so he first made a careful inspection of the upper rooms of the house, assuring himself that they contained nothing of importance to him. Then he investigated the two tall windowless buildings which the owner of the property had built as a museum, spending over an hour admiring the great beasts and studying the curiosities in the smaller cases. It was half past six before he got back to Mrs. Bird's kitchen again and with her he found Milly.

The girl had been waked early by the crunch of his feet on the gravel under her window an hour before. Looking out and seeing a strange man in the grounds she had rushed to tell her foster-mother who told her of the surprising events which had happened during the night.

Milly was dressed now in a light blue summer frock that enhanced the blue of her eyes and set off her delicate coloring and golden hair. When Wells was introduced she was agog with excitement at meeting a real detective from Scotland Yard.

Mrs. Bird, who was cooking breakfast for the girl, suggested that the Inspector could do with another cup of tea before he left, and that while she was getting it ready the pair of them should go out and pick some fresh raspberries in the garden.

If the truth be told they ate more of the raspberries for further picked, yet in half an hour the little basket that Milly carried was full.

Mrs. Bird called them to the house with the news that Milly's breakfast was ready and pressed the Inspector to join her for a second meal. He accepted for the pleasure of remaining a little longer, managed two cups of tea and a further ration of raspberries, then when there no longer seemed any reasonable excuse for further delaying his departure he reluctantly said good-bye.

Milly held out a frail little hand and laid it in his big brown one. "Shall we—shall we be seeing you again soon?" she asked.

He smiled. "I hope so; just as soon as I can manage it. With

PROBE PLANNED FOR GAS RATES

Government Intends To See If Gas Bills Can Be Cut

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The government intends to see if gas bills can be cut.

Under a new law, the power commission has authority to regulate natural gas in interstate commerce. The measure introduced by Representative Lea (D-Calif.), was supported by numbers of his colleagues as a means of cutting rates on gas piped from one state to another.

"For the first time in the history of this country," Clyde L. Seavey, acting commission chairman, said in a letter to Senator Bulkeley (D-Ohio), "natural gas is placed under effective public regulation."

"Because this vital public necessity flows in interstate commerce, the states have been powerless under the constitution to regulate its distribution and sale in the interests of the consuming public."

May Be Regulated

The assertion of congressional authority over the interstate wholesale rate and the grant to the federal power commission of authority to investigate and ascertain the actual legitimate cost of gas properties, depreciation and other necessary facts for rate-making purposes will make it possible for the state regulatory commissions for the first time to exercise effectively their power to fix reasonable distribution rates to the ultimate consumers.

Seavey emphasized that the intention of the act was to "secure the sale of natural gas in interstate commerce at the lowest possible reasonable rate consistent with the maintenance of adequate service in the public interest."

The act, passed at the last session of congress, has received President Roosevelt's approval.

Wardens Organize

CLEVELAND, June 25.—The Ohio State Dog Wardens association was organized today with the following officers: H. L. Leffingwell, Cuyahoga county, president; William Rudolph, Huron county, secretary; McNabb Knox county, Oliver J. Benjamin, Montgomery county, and Charles Hamilton, Summit county, district vice presidents, and Carl Sample, Medina county, secretary-treasurer.

Signs Never Fail

OAKLAND, Calif.—Mrs. Louis Rothwell yielded to her curiosity and forced her way through a clump of bushes in Orinda park to read a sign.

"Beware of poison oak," it warned—too late.

A justice court awarded her $100 judgment against the park for medical expenses.

crooks in this place it's part of my job not to keep my eye on it."

"Well, knowing that, we shan't be the least bit frightened," she said simply. "But do take care of yourself, won't you?"

"Rather," he grinned, "as you've been nice enough to ask me to."

WARREN, June 25.—Warren is speeding preparations to be host to its Northern Ohio neighbors next week during the Western Reserve celebration when historic ceremonies will meet the contrast of modern thrill entertainment.

Warren, the original capital of the Connecticut Western Reserve, a three-million-acre tract now divided into 13 northern Ohio counties, will honor the pioneers of 1796 but will celebrate in the 1938 way with automobile and motorcycle races, elaborate fireworks display, a great pageant with a cast of 1500 people, circus thrill acts, and a score of shows and other midway entertainment.

Mayors of 40 cities will be special guests. At night the pageant "Pioneers West" will have its premier. Services In Our Churches

Emmanuel Lutheran Church Members to Hear College Head

The Sunday school meets at 9 a. m. and offers graded classes for Christian education of the young. Lee Schaefer is the superintendent. Divine worship services at 10 a. m. Dr. Gast will preach the sermon. Dr. Gast is a fine preacher. He preaches, not economics and political science, but the eternal unchanging Truth of God's Love for the sinful world and His proffered Redemption through Christ Jesus. Let nothing keep you from attending services in God's house this Sunday.

A Quiet Heart

In the face of the turmoil and strife of today in society, in business, and in politics, a great philosopher, recently speaking to a graduation class, struck the keynote of achievement when he said, "A quiet heart is necessary for the accomplishment of any great plan." Consider the masterpieces of the world's work; the achievements of the great artists, inventors, builders and explorers. All have been the products of a quiet heart, untorn by restlessness, strife and turmoil. These passions are destructive, not constructive.

What then is the remedy — the present day remedy, open to every man and woman?

It is not withdrawal from the thick of life to hermit seclusion. One's spirit may be one of repose while in the midst of action, refuge for oneself and others, like an oasis in a desert. There is but one way to attain this, a way old as the everlasting hills and as unchanging.

"Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee."

Announcements

On Monday evening the Luther league will have a picnic at the Dunn Eden lake. All leaguers who wish to go should be at the church at 5:30 o'clock.

The Golden Text is: "The ransom of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads; they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away." (Isaiah 35:10).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Then he called his twelve disciples together, and gave them power and authority over all devils, and to cure diseases. And he sent them to preach the kingdom of God, and to heal the sick" (Luke 9:12).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In divine Science, where prayers are mental, all may avail themselves of God as a very present help in trouble. Love is impartial and universal in its adaptation and bestowals. It is the open fount which, 'Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters'."

This society maintains a reading room at 138 S. Broadway where the Bible and all authorized Christian Science literature may be read or borrowed. List Sermon Topic For Morning Rites At Trinity Church

"How the Kingdom Grows" is the subject of the sermon which Rev. George D. Keister will preach at the morning worship service of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church tomorrow, the second Sunday after Trinity.

Complete services for the church and announcements are as follows: Sunday school, 9:45; (Mark 16:1-20); Charles W. Youtz, superintendent.

It is possible to make a new world with Christ. Every conceivable plan of man has been used to make this world what it ought to be. Failure is the end of them all. The principles of Christ if they were believed in and lived, would transform people and every phase of living into a new world. Some call Christ an idealist. Maybe He was, but certainly there is a demand for idealism that will serve to pull people and their selfishness out of the common walks of life. Christ can make a new world.

Morning worship, 11; Sermon by the pastor.

God does not shrink from starting some mighty work from a small beginning. This plan all the more reveals the power and genius of the mighty Creator. So is this true of Christ may dwell in the heart of a person. Then it takes hold and becomes a part of that person's life and soon this same spirit reaches out and comes into the hearts of other people. The Kingdom is not completed. There is some growth yet to be accomplished. Some hearts are empty of the gospel of Christ. The principles of the Great Teacher have not been universally accepted.

Mongolia Believed Holding Key To Future Of Orient

(By The Associated Press.)

HANKOW, China, June 25.—Mongolia's vast desert spaces from which Genghis Khan once emerged to turn history's tides in Asia again may hold the key to the future of the Orient.

In view of China's persistent efforts to enlist a greater measure of support from Soviet Russia in her war against Japan, military observers are wondering what is happening behind the veil of secrecy surrounding outer Mongolia.

This is an autonomous state under Soviet Russia's guidance, with a Russian-trained, Russian-equipped army which some observers estimate at 100,000 men, a force on Japan's most vulnerable flank which might become a major factor in the far eastern conflict.

Outer Mongolia nominally is under Chinese suzerainty, and there have been reports Moscow might make the gesture of restoring the state to China to permit it to function in the war against Japan. Such a development probably would shift the war to outer Mongolia's eastern and southern borders, those with Manchoukuo and inner Mongolia, respectively.

Manchoukuo is Japan's protectorate, established in provinces wrested from China. Japanese forces have occupied all major cities and lines of communication in inner Mongolia.

No accurate census ever has been taken of the Mongols, inhabiting some 1,875,000 square miles between Siberia and Japan's continental coasts, but they are believed to total about 1,000,000, most of them in outer Mongolia.

Mongolia has been the football of Russian, Japanese and Chinese politics for a generation.

Foreign military men here believe the Mongol strength, directed against Manchoukuo and the garrisons recently installed by Japan along outer Mongolia's borders would cause deep drains of Japan's depleted manpower.

To meet the Mongol onslaught, they believe, Japan would have to withdraw division after division from north and central China.

Outer Mongolia is a thoroughly Sovietized state. Her only modern lines of communication are her railways and air lines connecting her with Soviet Russia.

Only the old caravan trails for camels and bullock carts link outer Mongolia with China, and many of these already are in Japanese possession.

Mongolians Are Ready

Ever since Japan conquered Manchuria in 1931 and the years following, and especially since the Japanese war machine rolled along the inner Mongolian corridor in 1937, the outer Mongolians have been preparing, with Russia's aid, for conflict.

Friends Lose To Break Four-Way Tie In Class B Softball

M. E. TEAM WINS OVER LUTHERAN SOFTBALL NINE

Emmanuel's Beat Friends In Class B; Cigars Win In Class A

A four-way tie for first place in the second round race of the Class B Softball league was pared to a three-way tie last evening as the Emmanuel Lutherans trounced the Friends, 11 to 2, and the Methodists blanked the Trinity Lutherans, 4 to 0, in junior circuit games at Centennial park.

The victories kept the Emmanuel Lutherans and Methodists tied with the Columbians for the lead in the Class B circuit. The Friends, by reason of their defeat, dropped from a tie for first.

Two-hit pitching by Frank Theriault paced the Methodists to their triumph over the Trinity Lutherans. It was the fourth win in five second round games for the M. E. team and their tenth victory of the season.

Clay Raynes slapped a home run to feature the Methodists' three-run scoring spurt in the opening frame. The M. E. club added another run in the second frame.

The Emmanuel Lutherans hammered out 12 hits to score two runs in the third inning, two in the fifth, two in the sixth and five in the seventh in handing the Friends their second setback of the second round.

The Friends, who tallied their two markers in the first inning to hold the lead until the third frame, tossed in seven errors to help the Emmanuel's in scoring.

Bill Pauline worked the route on the mound for the Emmanuel's and turned in another good pitching job in holding the Friends to five hits. Jeffries was the pitcher for the Friends.

Only one Class A game was played last night because of a forfeit given the Trades Class by Mullins Foremen.

In the lone senior circuit contest, Scott's Cigars gained a 7 to 3 win over Demings for their second straight triumph of the Class A league's third round race.

The Cigars pounded Pitcher Phillips of Demings for nine hits to tally two runs in the first inning, two in the fifth and three in the sixth. The Pumpknakers pushed over one run in the fourth frame and one in the sixth.

Dale Ritchie's four-hit pitching played an important part in the Cigars' triumph.

The forfeit victory given the Trades Class by Mullins was the second win of the second round for the Tradesmen.

As Louis Crumpled Schmeling in One Round

This camera continuity strip of the world heavyweight title fight in New York portrays in graphic fashion the manner in which Joe Louis blasted Max Schmeling and won by a technical knockout in the first round. Pictures show Louis landing his right in photo No. 1 and the challenger sprawled on the canvas, a dazed, beaten man in Photo No. 4. Later examination showed the blow caused a fracture.

PICARD LEADS GOLF TOURNEY

Hershey, Pa., Golf Star Is Far In Lead In Cincinnati Event

CINCINNATI, June 25.—There are four rounds left to the $5,000 Goodall invitational golf tourney on the Kenwood course, but 14 pros will have to go like a poor man's dollar to catch Henry Picard.

Henry has a plus 15 rating in the complicated plus-minus scoring of the round robin, he's kicking par all around the lot, and with 54 of the 126 holes played, he looks like the goods.

This morning he plays Ed Dudley, who is minus one, and Harry Cooper, who's plus four. And this afternoon he's up against his nearest competitor and the other sensation of the tourney, Lawson Little, who has plus 10, and also Tommy Armour with plus one.

Little was minus three after the first 18 holes, but yesterday he shot 67 playing against Dudley, Vic Ghezzi, and Tony Penna, and a five-par 69 against Cooper and Frank Walsh. That sort of thing put him back in the running fast.

Picard, playing against Johnny Revolta, Walsh and Gene Sarazen, also had a 67 for the morning round and a 66 for the nightcap against Sarazen and Sam Snead. From seven-plus after the first 18 he jumped to his big total of 15 plus.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, June 25.—Suspicious sports writers began to smell the well-known rat when Robert Taylor, the movie star, was spotted in a delegation of Californians trying to talk Mike Jacobs into staging a heavyweight championship fight in San Francisco next year.... Particularly since Taylor's next picture will be built around a fight story.... The west-erners are taking it seriously and guaranteed Mike a million potatoes to stage the show.... Mike told 'em to rake up the dough and then come back.... Six months ago, Mike said: "From now on, all my important shows will be held in New York."

Taylor, by the way, made a big hit with the hard-boiled New York boxing writers, who can spot a phony a block away.... He may be beautiful to the gals, but to the scribes he is just a well set-up, extremely personable young man who uses choice cuss words and knows his boxing and boxers.

Unusual stories: The Yankees (who own Newark) selling a ball player (Bob Seeds) to the hated Giants.... Chicago sports writers say Windy City fans have about given up on the Cubs this year.... Note to sports editors: Mike Jacobs will have Max Baer signed to a three-year contract by night fall and that means a Louis-Baer bout in September if Louis isn't scared off by the high income tax rate.

Hats off to Art Cohn, sports editor of the Oakland (Cal.) Tribune.... The exit line in his column Wednesday read: "Today's wish—some candid cameraman gets a picture of the expression on Herr Hitler's puss tonight when he hears that Schmeling was knocked out in the first round.... That's calling 'em Butch, and Gus Uhlmann comes up with the picture in Friday's New York Post."

Early arrivals at Ebbetts field these days are getting a great kick out of watching Babe Ruth slug that baseball.... he's fat and forty-odd but still can do tricks with that war club.... He's lost at least two balls with drives over the palms every day since he joined the club.

RIGGS SEED NO. 1 IN EVENT

Frank Parker Is Rated Second In Tri-State Tennis Tourney

CINCINNATI, June 25.—Bobby Riggs, the nation's ranking No. 2 tennis player, was seeded first in the men's singles of the 37th annual renewal of the Tri-State tennis tournament opening here today.

Frank Parker, ranking No. 3, was seeded second as a record of 90 players entered in the competition for the Wilfred M. Tyler Tri-State silver bowl. Riggs already has two legs on the bowl, which has been in competition since 1928.

Riggs and Parker, who played three years on the Davis cup team, are playing in the national clay court tourney in Chicago and are not expected here before tomorrow or Monday. Few other out-of-town contestants are expected before then.

RAVENNA LINKS ACE TO BATTLE OHIO CHAMPION

Charles Carl Will Meet Maurice McCarthy In Amateur Finals

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, June 25.—A kid who has never won anything worth mentioning, and a veteran who has a host of sculps dangling at his belt, faced each other today at Scioto Country club in the 36-hole finals of the 36th annual Ohio amateur golf championship.

Charles Carl of Ravenna, 23-year-old captain of Ohio State university's golf team, who has won nine of 11 dual matches for the Bucks, was the kid.

Maurice J. McCarthy, Jr. of Cincinnati, 32-year-old defending champion, was the veteran.

McCarthy, in addition to two Ohio championships, has held the national intercollegiate, New York state amateur, and Metropolitan crowns. He also has played on America's Walker cup team and has appeared in nine national amateurs.

McCarthy's entrance into the title flight of 32 was a courtesy, the champion getting No. 1 spot because of his title. Carl got into the flight through the back door, winning the 32nd berth in a play-off with two others. Thus, the top and bottom men in the flight survived to the finals, with 30 talented gladiators of the fairways falling by the wayside in the preliminary firing.

McCarthy ripped out a 4 and 2 decision in Friday's semi-finals over Tony Ruddy, publicans star from Toledo, the champ finishing one under par. Carl had a tougher fight on his hands, needing 19 holes and a 12-foot birdie putt on the extra one to dispose of Akron's Carlin Short, one up.

"Olympian" Figures In Another Crash

CHICAGO, June 25.—General offices of the Milwaukee railroad announced that one CCC boy was killed another was missing and that seven passengers on the road's
"Olympian" train were injured early today near Ingomar, Mont., in a head-on collision between a CCC special and the "Olympian." Road officials here were unable to give details of the wreck—the "Olympian" second in a week, an estimated 47 having perished in a bridge washout Sunday.
They said those aboard the "Olympian" today were injured only slightly and were given first aid treatment by a doctor on the train. Names of the victims and missing CCC boy were not available.

The locomotive and mail car on the "Olympian" and the locomotive and two kitchen cars on the CCC special were damaged and derailed, they said. All coaches and sleepers on the "Olympian" remained standing on the rails, undamaged.
They added that the wreck apparently was caused when Engineer Torgenson, regularly assigned to the Olympian, overlooked an order and passed through Ingomar.

"BULL" MARKET WEEK'S FEATURE

Seems to Indicate "We're
At the Bottom," Says Analyst

been longing for. The stock market tries to forecast business trends.
Sometimes it succeeds, and sometimes it doesn't, but this week it gambled heavily on recovery.
Perhaps the week's most significant business development came after the close of the market yesterday, when U. S. steel subsidiaries announced a cut in prices of finished and semi-finished steel products of from about 7 to 21 per cent, bringing them down to the lowest in a little more than 10 years.

Steel Maintains Market Rise

NEW YORK, June 25.—Buying of steel shares sent the stock market up for the sixth day in a row today, after announcement by U. S.
Steel Corp. that none of its officials had given assurances that its reduction in steel prices would not be followed by wage cuts.

The market slid back quietly in the first hour, many shares showing losses of 50 cents to $1, but buying quickly appeared after the steel statement, and toward noon many stocks were 50 cents to more than $3 above yesterday's final levels. Trading quickened on the advance, and the quotation ticker fell a few minutes in arrears.

U. S. Steel rose $1 to above $53, Youngstown Sheet and Tube nearly $2 to close to $41, Chrysler more than $1.50 to above $55.50, International Harvester around $3 to above $65, Westinghouse Electric more than $1.50 to above $92.

The big steel maker's terse statement that no assurances had been given regarding wages, caused some confusion, following President Roosevelt's expression of gratification last night that the steel price reduction "involved no wage cuts."

Nevertheless, some traders seemed to feel that the corporation's refusal to commit itself on wages was "bullish."

CLEVELAND—Little Phyllis Verchio, 4, is still alive because she grabbed the fender of a moving automobile that bore down on her and clung to it until the car stopped. She escaped with minor injuries.

ELYRIA—Police received a different kind of "missing person" call.
The missing one was a "Mrs. Mink" —not human, but a female mink valued at $50. Its owner, O. V. Carper, told police that the animal had strayed from his home and asked them to help look for it.

Job Done, Quits

Leon G. Turrou

His job done, Leon G. Turrou, ace
New York G-man, turns to writing about spies instead of investigating them. Turrou, who resigned his post, uncovered the sensational espionage story which has been climaxed by a federal grand jury indictment of 18 persons, including two Germans high in the Reich ministry.

Theater Attractions

Robert Taylor, Margaret Sullivan, Robert Young and Franchot
Tone in a scene from "The Three Comrades," at the State Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The State theater will present
"The Three Comrades," the latest work of Erich Maria Remarque, author of "All Quiet on the Western Front" and "The Road Back," on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.
Robert Taylor, Robert Young, Franchot Tone and Margaret Sullivan share stellar honors in the poignant love story of the aftermath of the World War and of three young soldiers who attempt to rehabilitate themselves to a new life.
Guy Kibbee, Lionel Atwill, Henry Hull, Charles Grapewin and Monty Woolley have supporting roles.

Home To Revolution
In "The Three Comrades," Robert Taylor makes his first appearance since his return from England, where he starred in "A Yank at Oxford." He plays one of three young German war veterans who return to their homes to build up a new life and find themselves engulfed in revolution.

Margaret Sullivan is seen as the orphan girl, formerly wealthy, with whom Taylor falls in love and to whom she brings a needed happiness. Franchot Tone has the role of serious-minded Koster and the third member of the trio is Robert Young as the patriotic youth who later is slain in revolutionary battle.

An entertaining new mystery story, "The Saint in New York," which shows Wednesday only at the State, stars Louis Hayward with Kay Sutton in a tale of the famous fiction detective called the Saint.
This modern Robin Hood type of detective arrives in New York from abroad to clean up the crime situation in the largest city in the U. S.

Thursday the State will offer patrons a comedy romance, "One Wild Night," which features June Lang, Dick Baldwin, Lyle Talbot, Edward Bromberg and Sidney Toler.

MacMurray Starred Fred MacMurray is starred in the highly entertaining musical, "Coconut Grove," which will be the attraction at the State Friday and Saturday.

With MacMurray, who again plays the role of an orchestra leader, are Harriet Hilliard, the Yacht Club
Boys, Ben Blue, Rufe Davis, Billy Lee, drummer; Eve Arden, and many other well-known players.

A double feature program is booked for the Grand Sunday and Monday. The first film is a musical,
"Let's Make a Night of It," with Buddy Rogers, June Clyde and Claire Luce in the leading roles.

An exclusive blue-blooded family becomes owner of two night clubs.
The father is made owner of one in payment for a loan and the mother next to each other and there is not enough patronage to keep both going. The young people solve the problem and the clubs become paying proposition.

"Air Devils" Booked
featuring Dick Purcell, Larry Blake, Beryl Wallace and Mamo Clark, a story of the rivalry of two fliers for the love of the same girl.
Preston Foster is seen in the leading role in "The Lady In the Morgue," a crime club mystery story which shows at the Grand Thursday only.

Bob Baker in "The Last Stand" will be the attraction at the Grand next Friday and Saturday. The second chapter of the new serial adventure tale, "Zoro Rides Again," featuring John Carroll, will be seen at the Grand, also.

Concluding tonight are "Blockade," with Henry Fonda and Ma-leine Carroll, at the State, and "Om-Law," with George O'Brien, at the Grand. The new serial begins a 12-week showing at the Grand this week.

SLASH MADE IN STEEL PRICES

Surprise Move Leaves In-

steel without a corresponding reduction in wages. When the union agreement was renewed in February, a clause was inserted giving the company the right to demand changes, such as a wage reduction, and to abrogate it within 30 days unless some understanding was reached. Senator Bulkeley (D-Ohio) commented that "Big Steel may be trying to get a little ahead of the monopoly investigation."

The effect of placing Chicago and Pittsburgh on a price parity on finished products for the first time may have a wide effect on the mid-western market. Most semi-finished steel prices have been corresponding, but yesterday's slashes wiped out the $1 and $2 and more a ton differences on finished products.

See Expansion in South
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 25.— Tremendous industrial expansion in the south was forecast today by business and political leaders as a result of elimination of steel price differentials long attacked by southern economists as discriminatory.

NEW YORK, June 25.—U. S. Steel Corp. in a brief statement today said none of its officials "has given any assurances that wage reductions will not follow steel price reductions announced yesterday."

Late yesterday leading subsidiaries of the nation's biggest steel maker announced price cuts in its products ranging from 7 to 21 per cent, and reducing them to the lowest in slightly more than 10 years.
Commenting on the price cut in his "fireside" chat in Washington last night, President Roosevelt said,
"I was gratified to know that this reduction involved no wage cuts.
Every encouragement should be given to industry which accepts a large volume-high wage policy."

A Difference

AUGUSTA, Ga.—A young woman applicant for a civil service job here knows now that between "light-house keeping" and "light housekeeping" there's more difference than appears to the eye.
At the postoffice, where she tried to sign up for the examination as assistant lighthouse keeper, officials explained the only similarity in this modern age of electricity is that neither lighthouse keepers nor light housekeepers have to trim the lamps any more.
